Best app to learn chinese quora

CC0/langll/Pixabay Whether you're traveling for business, pleasure or something in between, getting around a new city can be difficult and frightening if you don't have the right information. In today's digital world, you have all of the information right there at your fingertips, especially if you've downloaded one of these 10 innovative apps that will help you get around. Best of all, each app is available for both iOS and Android devices.iExitDo you love taking road trips (or have to take them for work)? If so, you can't go another day without iExit. When you're driving along a major interstate and you're looking for a gas station, certain type of restaurant, welcome center, bathroom, hotel, hospital, drug store or any other place where you may need to make stop, you can simply pull up iExit and find it. The app breaks down each exit on most major interstates in the United States. CC0/KatieBethToday/Pixabay Google Maps Google Maps has been around for years, but it still reigns supreme when it comes to getting around town. Find out what kind of public transportation is offered in the area, which points of interest are nearby and even how crowded those restaurants and shops you want to visit are at that exact moment. Get directions to your next destination, and find out how long it will take to get there via car, foot, public transit or bike. CC0/Publicco/Pixabay Mobile Passport Anyone traveling internationally will want to download the Mobile Passport app. Use your phone to scan your passport information, and you can skip the customs lines. While it's authorized for use by US Customs, keep in mind that it's only accepted at about 24 airports, and you must be an American or Canadian citizen, though those numbers are sure to grow. CC0/Cytis/Pixabay FLIOno one really looks forward to a delayed flight, but if you find yourself enjoying a layover, FLIO can help you navigate the airport for everything you need to stay comfortable. Find out how to use the Wi-Fi, where the lounges are, what there is to eat in the area and how to get from place to place among other important information. CC0/Katyveldhorst/Pixabay GasBuddy If you prefer driving over flying to your destination, GasBuddy can be your best friend. It's available in the United States, Australia and Canada, and you can use the app to search for gas stations near your location and compare prices to find the cheapest gas in the vicinity. CC0/Skitterphoto/Pixabay HotelTonight For some people, there's nothing worse than being stuck in an unfamiliar city and having to book a hotel at the last minute. For others, that's part of the thrill of a road trip. No matter which side of the issue you fall on, HotelTonight helps you find same-day hotel reservations in the city where you're staying, and those bookings usually come with some decent discounts. CC0/Bottlein/Pixabay UberYou're probably already familiar with Uber, but if you aren't, the app is a must for your next travel date. The ridesharing service is available in over 84 countries and hundreds of cities around the globe. When you have no idea where you're going, how to get there or you simply don't want to navigate traffic in a new place, it's a trusty standby you can rely on practically anywhere. It also comes in handy when you've had a bit too much to drink or those new shoes rubbed blisters on your feet and you can't get back to your hotel. CC0/Free-Photos/Pixabay Google Trips Google Trips is a newer app, but it works seamlessly with apps like Google Maps, Gmail and Calendar to put together an itinerary for your next trip. It searches for information like flight details, hotel reservations and car rental receipts and provides you with a list of things you may like to do in the city you're traveling to. You can also manually select a destination city, and let the app put together a list of things that might interest you there. SidekixIf you find yourself with a little downtime in a particular city, Sidekix can guide you towards something fun and exciting to do. From Amsterdam to Warsaw, with dozens in between, you can get a glimpse at some "best of" guides cities around the world. Looking for the best seafood restaurant in Boston or the best museum in Havana? You'll find it on Sidekix. CC0/StockSnap/Pixabay YelpNo matter where you go, you have to eat, and finding the best place in town isn't always easy. Yelp is an international tool filled with reviews of local restaurants in cities across the globe. It's more useful in some countries than others, and within the United States, you'll find more reviews for restaurants in bigger cities than you will the country, but you'll get honest feedback on whether or not locals and other travelers recommend a place to eat. Build your vocabulary, master Chinese grammar, and learn authentic expressions used by native speakers today.P.S. We also updated our in-app Discover section! Give it a look :) I am a teacher and very thoughtful about the ways the human brain absorbs information. I teach in a predominantly Chinese area, so I am motivated to learn Chinese. My students think it is exciting and funny when I try to speak Chinese - they laugh, then help me with my accent and tones. I bought Rosetta Stone (very expensive) and I do use it, but this app is 1) much easier to get into, 2) more memorable with art than with photos, 3) more multimodal (switching from recognize, recall, listen, write, fill-in, English to Chinese, Chinese to English, etc.), 4) more grammatically oriented (ie this/that), 4) more organized topically, 5) less confusing (when using RS I have to stop and look things up on google translate or else stay confused) 6) more reading/writing (on this app I am starting to read the Chinese before the English), more time friendly (5-10 minute sections), and 8) more [sic] FREE!!! So great that I took the time to write a review! (I rarely do this) ([If you are a developer reading this review, please turn the large written Chinese characters into Flashcards for optional ongoing vocabulary development (I currently screenshot them, but think it would be a great addition to the app - and thank you!! ))) Hi!! love this app, but however, the new lesson format is very annoying!! There is no way to turn off English translations in the new lessons! I already KNOW what the characters mean, and if I am supposed to be learning to read Chinese and not English, I need to be able to only see Chinese characters if I want. Giving English translations every darn time WILL NEVER HELP a person learn to read Chinese. We need to be able to test our reading skills by NOT seeing English(or other language that a person's native language is.) over or under the characters. Why did you guys ADD English to everything?? The old lessons were not like that. Please fix the new lessons to be English free! It is not immersion when my native language is always in my face when I don't want it to be. A person should be allowed to choose whether they want translations or not. If we can choose to have pinyin, both pinyin and characters or just characters, then we should be able to turn on and off the English translations as well. The ONLY place any English translations should be permanent in, are in the green/red boxes, where corrections are given after we give an answer. Otherwise, English(or other people's native language) should be an option in the non-green/red box areas and not permanent. I tried to find a way to turn them off, but there is no way. PLEASE FIX IMMEDIATELY! Thank you! I will change to 5 stars once this is fixed. Hello, sorry for the negative experience! In the learning section, the translation has to be there so that a learner can select the correct answer. If you prefer to read Chinese only, it's recommended to use the Flashcard feature under Review, and set the display in Chinese by clicking the Settings button on top right. If you need further assistance, please message us using the in-app "Contact Us" function. We'll get back to you by the next business day. Thank you again for choosing ChineseSkill! ^^ I've tried this and duolingo for a few days, and although duolingo seems to be more well known (could be just marketing), I like ChineseSkill app more. (My background is that I am Cantonese Chinese, and I know how to speak and understand some really basic Mandarin but am not a native Mandarin speaker.) Duolingo was way too repetitive, i was on the first lesson "greetings" and it repeated the same two words ("hello") throughout 2-3 long lessons which was such a waste of time. ChineseSkill is not as mind-numbingly repetitive and even when it does try to teach you the same word/sentence a few times it will do it in a few different ways. Also, I really appreciate that ChineseSkill teaches not only the sounds of the words but also shows you the pinyin and how to write the words in Chinese characters, which duolingo does not do. They are both fun apps, and I can see how they'd be a fun and easy way to teach people completely new to the language. But since I already know how to speak and understand some basic mandarin, and I am looking to increase my vocabulary more quickly in order to be able to carry conversations and would also like to learn how to read and write chinese, I think I need to take a more advanced maybe university level course, like on Coursera or something.
